

Guidelines for Writing for EAI

Thank you for considering submitting your writing to EAI to be included as approved materials. Below please find the guidelines for writing, some recommendations on writing style, and the various publications where your writing could be used. All writing would become the property of EAI for copyright purposes. EAI has final review and edit authority for all submissions.

- When referring to a "power greater than ourselves" that we rely upon for strength and guidance in this program, please refer to a "Higher Power." We refer to a Higher Power because we are a spiritual, not religious program. Language that regularly refers to "God" or even He/Him (because often we think of God as having a male pronoun) can be quite off-putting for many people who are seeking help from EA, bud do not have a religious point of view when defining who or what their Higher Power is. The exception to this is to use language such as "God is my Higher Power: or words of that nature, when sharing who or what your Higher Power is personally.
- Focus on the essentials of the EA program. Literature material can encompass Steps, Traditions, Concepts, Promises, Just For Todays, and Slogans.
- Writings on the principles of the program would be helpful, which include:

Step 1 – HonestyStep 5 - IntegrityStep 9 – JusticeStep 2 – HopeStep 6 - WillingnessStep 10 – PerseveranceStep 3 – FaithStep 7 - HumilityStep 11 – Spiritual AwarenessStep 4 – CourageStep 8 – ResponsibilityStep 12 – Service

- Include several (4-7) relevant questions as part of a pamphlet is beneficial. Questions should be thought-provoking and open-ended (vs. closed "yes/no" questions).
- Share personal stories and illustrations to help material be more relatable.
- Have a focus on the healing and wholeness possible for the person suffering with emotional issues. EA is a program that helps us to grow in our work to be responsible for our own lives. Literature that can center on the positive aspects of our program is the most beneficial.
- Make sure that what is shared is written with good grammar and sentence structure. (EA-ISC may choose to edit your material.)
- For pamphlets, keeping the word count to about 900 words. Longer pieces may be made into workbooks or booklets.
- Material should NOT be formatted. Documents should be submitted in MS Word only.
- Submit information to: submit information to: submissions@emotionsanonymous.org. Materials will be forwarded to the Book & Literature Committee. If accepted, writers will be required to sign over copyright.

- EAI will format, produce, and include new materials in the online store and on the order form, as well as communicate with EA members.
- Below are a few topics EA literature does not currently address. Before writing on other subjects, please check to make sure material on your chosen subject does not already exist.

Editing Considerations

When writing for EAI publications and emails, you want to understand the focus of each piece, the guidelines for length and the estimated deadline, as well as any special considerations to keep in mind and the contact person for submitting your draft. You can refer to the table below for helpful information.

It's important to ensure accuracy and readability by making sure your draft doesn't have any serious structure or grammar errors or misspellings, and that the tone of your writing is in keeping with the purpose of the piece. You will want to avoid colloquialisms, acronyms, and uniquely English phrases or references, and carefully consider your use of humor. Finally, please note the Emotions Anonymous International has final review and approval of all EA writings. EIA can edit materials for length, spelling, grammar, style and tone so they are appropriate to include in EA publications.

More writing tips are available here: Harvard Writing Center. In brief, you will strive to write active sentences ("I did this" instead of "this was done"); have a logical structure and flow (such as keeping similar thoughts together in one paragraph); be careful about using dashes, hyphens, colons and parentheses, which can interfere with readability, and always use the Spelling & Grammar feature in Word to spell check your work. One way to double-check accuracy is to cut and paste your draft in this free Grammar Check site. Click on the underlined references to look at options for correcting any errors (if you are reading this on the computer).

Following these guidelines will help you produce written pieces that are clear and compelling for all EA members to enjoy! All reflections/articles can be submitted by email to Elaine at director@emotionsanonymous.org. Please include your permission to use your writing as EAI sees fit. Material submitted will be saved and used when appropriate.
